The pre-symposium conference on family law in Canada is open to all participants but is designed for mental health professionals and for people whose work does not usually involve the justice system. The conference will discuss the law on parenting and the care of children after separation, contemporary dispute resolution processes, and the traditional and emerging ways that the views and voices of children and youth are presented in those processes. The conference is intended to provide valuable additional context for the work of the symposium. Register for the conference at www.findingthebestwaysforward.com.

Workshop materials are available at www.findingthebestwaysforward.com/materials/
